

A BRIEF HISTORY OF CONCORD MUSIC CLUB

The Music Club of Concord, New Hampshire was founded at the turn of the twentieth century by Edith C. Haines. The organization was first federated with the National Federation of Music Clubs in 1909 and was incorporated under the laws of New Hampshire in 1919.

Objectively, the Music Club has continually tried to stimulate individual effort in the study of music and to promote a wider interest in the development of music throughout the community. To this end the Club presents programs open to the public so that all in the community may share in the rich musical offerings of local club members and renowned artists brought to Concord for the education and pleasure of all--the serious music student and the music lover.

In the early 1900's some meetings were of the study group type and held in members' homes, while others were prepared programs in which members participated according to their instrumental or vocal talent. Such efforts provided a social as well as cultural benefit to members in those years before radio and television brought entertainment into the home. Throughout the years the majority of meetings have been held in various church parish halls or in Chamberlin House (Woman's Club).

Programs have ranged the gamut from the lofty pinnacles of opera and oratorio through sacred and secular choral and instrumental concerts, both solo and in ensemble, to musical comedy, revues and cabarets. Over the past sixty-five years the Concord Music Club has sponsored many musical groups and special events.

A chorus of Club members, augmented by other singers, has presented an oratorio to the public during Lent annually for the past twenty-five years. Ruth M. May was the chorus director for these and other programs until her death in 1958 and James D. Bell has carried on in recent years.

For the past nine years the Music Club has presented, in cooperation with the Concord Community Players, a famous Broadway or off-Broadway musical. It also sponsors the New Hampshire Philharmonic Orchestra in a local concert each year.

Many well-known names have been guiding lights in the development of the Club and the music history of Concord. The first president was Mrs. A. B. Woodworth. Prominent leaders (all now deceased) were the Remicks (Mrs. Charles Remick and her daughters Pauline and Helen); Mrs. Walter (Ruth Merrill) May, soprano soloist, who taught singing and directed local choruses; and Miss Angela Annicchiarico, local concert pianist, accompanist and teacher.

Among the past presidents still active and contributing much to music in the community are Mrs. Kendall (Rose White) Winship,

This statement prepared by Ellen C. Downing, president, and Eleanor Provencer, treasurer, of The Music Club of Concord.

Mrs. Donald (Ruth Wirrell) Sanborn, Mrs. Donald Tuttle, Mrs. Harry (Lucy Donovan) Owen, Miss Edna Bean, Mrs. Kinsley (Eleanor Vitagliano) Batchelder, Miss Eleanor Provencher (present Club treasurer), Mrs. Frederick Berman and Mrs. William Fuller.

The Music Club serves as a parent-advisor for the Junior Music Club of Concord, an organization of junior and senior high school students. The musical youth of the Capital City also benefit from scholarships, awards and other encouragement given by the Club. An annual scholarship is offered to a graduating high school senior who has displayed outstanding talent and who intends to continue his musical study. Both senior and junior Music Club members annually present philanthropic programs at various local institutions.

The Music Club in 1963 gave to the Concord Public Library a unique music listening room (The Ruth M. May Room) filled with recordings, sound equipment, music reference books and scores.

Now, in the city's Bi-Centennial Year, the Music Club of Concord, under its present president, Miss Ellen C. Downing, is making final plans for the dedication of its own concert hall in memory of Angela Annicchiarico in the John F. Kennedy Apartment Building. This small auditorium which will seat 205 will fill a real need for a versatile theater facility, available to all groups, yet providing the Music Club with a centrally located and adequately equipped "home" and meeting place. The fact that the auditorium is within a building housing a large number of elderly people will be a distinct advantage--the Music Club will bring community activities to them.

Prominent as has been the Concord Music Club in the past sixty-five years, it hopes, through the interest and endeavors of its present and future members, to occupy a place of prime significance in the musical development of the community in the coming years.

Many well-known names have been guiding lights in the development of the Club and the music history of Concord. The first president was Mrs. A. B. Woodworth. Prominent leaders (all now deceased) were the Benicks (Mrs. Charles Benick and her daughters Fredine and Helen); Mrs. Walter (Ruth Merrill) May, soprano soloist, who taught singing and directed local choruses; and Miss Angela Annicchiarico, local concert pianist, accompanist and teacher.
